5 0553 01001668 8

Exhumed—from a dying post
Obese, black, and ugly.
Virile god praised for warmth and pleasure . . . now sterile.
Exhumed—
to contrast . . .

Perhaps the most difficult dilemma faced by a dreamer is to instill faith in others around him—others who prefer to wait and watch, nodding approval only when the dream's beginnings have become reality.

Such was the dilemma of those who turned to this college several years ago. They saw a superlative faculty and an apathetic student body; unlimited potential and aging facilities, along with a curriculum which, though reputable, was rapidly becoming outdated.

They dared to dream.

Their initial problem was to insure the survival of the small liberal arts college in the face of expanding "universityism." Aware that this could be accomplished only if every aspect of development was founded upon excellence, they began.

Reaction, at first apathetic, shifted to outspoken opposition, and—finally—to the beginnings of support. The long-anticipated, nodding approval was evident at last.

The beginnings were apparent: the planners, realizing that growth must precede maturity, began soliciting funds, offering the potential of the college as security. They then moved to revitalize old structures, as well as to create new.

In existing structures Twentieth Century lighting, new paint, and appealing furnishings gave unprecedented emphasis to the comfort of the student. Professors of biology, music and art became the architects of the buildings in which they would work. Soon bare concrete blocks and awkward orange beams gave substance to their ideas.

Metamorphosis was evident. A campus was emerging which was unrecognizable even by its senior students, much less its alumni.

Students scraping hunks of red clay from their feet while enduring the ugliness of dangling wires and plaster blotched walls muttered beneath their breaths—but wondered as they were caught in the budding enthusiasm that accompanies change.

A black and white photograph of a classical building facade, featuring several large, fluted columns. The building is viewed from a low angle, looking up. A large, bright circular light source, possibly the sun or moon, is visible in the upper left corner of the sky. The text is overlaid in the upper right corner.

Thus, the campus in 1967 stands approximately half completed. The existing facilities, so long ignored, are once again habitable; the new buildings, sometimes criticized for their discontinuity of architectural style, nevertheless have been constructed around the needs of the student.

At last the adequacy of the physical plant is more equated with the academic prowess of the faculty and student body.

But what of the student himself? He is the object for which the dream was conceived. It is his reaction which must ultimately determine the success or failure of the program. In 1958, it was said in a portrait of Birmingham-Southern: "There are intimations that the college is beginning to respond to current changes." The same might be said of the student body beginning in 1963. It is significant that its initial reaction was negative, but that now, the years 1966-67 can be designated as those in which positive student response became evident—even if this evidence was barely noticeable.

We are the paradoxical products of a region caught in a down-swirl created by a social evolution attacking tradition. We are the breed which finds itself exposed to ideas and ideals often contradictory to the culture which we have known. We are the ones who must carry the ultimate responsibility of decision. The New Birmingham-Southern is dedicated to us. Its hope lies in the nature of our breed.

In preceding years the Southern student has always been depicted as a whole person from an academic point of view. He has been freed from the strict limitations of technical knowledge and partially allowed to develop an individuality in his learning—which is, ideally, the true aim of a liberal arts education. Dietrich Bonhoeffer, evolution, Bach, and the theory of equations can be discussed with some familiarity by a great majority of the students.

This aspect of the totally educated student remains in the years 1966-67. However, we have been segregated from the past by circumstance and attitude.

The typical "Southerner" of past years could be described as apathetic at best. He was academically astute, but greatly lacking in the depth and sensitivity which is so necessary for development of maturity. The typical student of today is something else. His character is indicative of the transition in which he is involved.

Perhaps our best indication of this departure from the old can be seen in the changes which are appearing in our non-academic existence. Previously extracurricular opportunities, manifest in virtually every phase of out of classroom life, retained all of the characteristics of the 'Southern old maid—they simply never were taken advantage of. A lack of communication between administration and student body, combined with the student's negative attitude toward any attempt to change his generally skeptical position, gave student life on this campus the vibrancy of a rain-drenched funeral. The average student, unwilling to voluntarily involve himself in any way, resented any forcing of the issue as a prostitution of his morose indolency.

The student of '66-67 cannot be portrayed as the direct opposite. His reactions to original ideas and efforts either for or against him are immediate. But they are as temporary as they are refreshing, and are seemingly consistent with the mood of the seasons—a pattern somewhat akin to that followed by our predecessors.

In the Fall, the student body exhibits a mixed tendency. The old-timers return with a hint of enthusiasm that momentarily depresses the old skepticism. The new students are attracted to and intrigued by campus life with alarming success. The old regime, slightly enthused by the catching spirit, almost joins the new movement—almost. Soon, however, the upperclassmen succeed in twisting the movement to their own cynical viewpoint, and the spirit begins to die its usual, slow death.

Winter Quarter at Southern continues to cultivate the growing skepticism. Rain and cold, combined with the perpetual grey wind which blows across the Hilltop, drape the campus in a dismal blanket of depression. Students are rarely seen on the campus during other than class hours. It is as though the entire campus enters a discontented hibernation, leaving only a few diehard enthusiasts.

Spring releases us with a new-found, pregnant fervor: quadrangles and parking lots are once again filled with students. The admittedly potent campus organizations make an effort to challenge the old "spirit"—although it can be said that in past years this has only produced temporary results.

Our year has been significantly different. For the first time, this entrenched pattern has been weakened —although it has not been conquered. Vitality has been evidenced by the student body. Although it may be called slight by some, it is perhaps a first link of a chain which may eventually lead to the development of a student body composed of mature, sensitive people—rather than mere students. Certainly this must be the true goal which the dreamers had in mind when they began to fight for a student body which would do little more than fight them back.

We must strive to do far more. It remains for us to develop the potential within ourselves to its greatest extent. For only by doing this can we give substance to plans which, without our effort, will be little more than dreams.

DEDICATION

A man of ideas and conviction

- dedicated to overcoming the inconsistency in human nature which defies progress.
- defied by those he was determined to help.

Dreams and promises poured forth to deaf people . . .
. . . what kept him going?

You would have quit.
I would have quit.
Why didn't he?

Certainly he is intelligent, as well as highly educated. Anyone who cared to review his record would know that.

. . . he is no man's fool.

Our President knew . . .
. . . what we were too blind to see.
Now we are glimpsing . . .
. . . perhaps if given long enough . . .

He is dignified, personable, dedicated . . .
. . . he does have a hard time reaching students on their own level.
He can and will overcome this.

He is sensitive . . .
If more of us would realize this we could understand him better.

He has courage . . .
. . . the backwoodsmen who tried to brand him a traitor learned this . . .
They were awed by it.

He has been called a dreamer
—realities have stemmed from his dreams.
So, he is more . . .
He is a builder.

No one can deny the evident progress.
He will make even more.

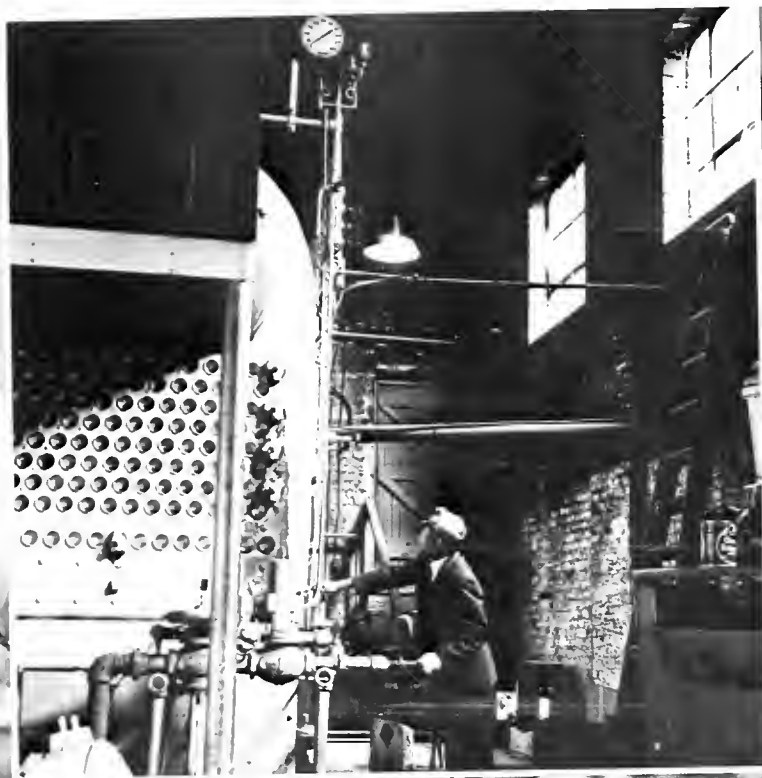

Of course, he hasn't been completely alone . . .
. . . or has he . . .

The 1967 Southern Accent Staff wishes to do more than dedicate this annual to Dr. Howard M. Phillips; we wish to thank him for what he has done, to pay tribute to him for his courage, to apologize to him for the blindness of the Student Body, and—to wish him well for the future.

Perhaps now we more fully realize how closely his future is linked with our own.

FACULTY AND ADMINISTRATION

Reality and dedication combine to reveal a most capable concert of administrators and faculty members at Birmingham-Southern.

The efforts of these educated people are often collectively applauded only annually. Words fail to convey both the magnitude of their obligation and the extraordinary success they continue to enjoy in the fulfillment of sacred responsibility.

THE PRESIDENT

Howard M. Phillips, Jr. is serving as the sixth president of Birmingham-Southern College. Before coming to the Hilltop, he held positions of professor of biology and dean of the graduate school at Emory University, and the presidency of Alabama College, Montevallo.

By the time Dr. Phillips arrived at Birmingham-Southern, he had become known as an innovator and a builder. Certainly he has proved his reputation while here.

Not content with the excellent progress he has made in improvement of the physical plant, Dr. Phillips has played a leading role in spearheading radical advancement of our recruiting program and the new academic program which promises to develop the college's emphasis on individual initiative to the greatest possible extent.

He received his B.S. and M.A. from Wake Forest College, and his Ph.D. from the University of Virginia.

CHANCELLOR GUY M. SNAVELY

Chancellor Guy E. Snavely held the position of President of Birmingham-Southern College from 1921-1937, and again from 1955-1957. Upon his retirement in 1957, he was elected Chancellor of Birmingham-Southern College.

He is the man for whom the student center is named and is remembered as a reason for the very existence of the college.

ACADEMIC VICE PRESIDENT

CECIL ABERNETHY

Dr. Cecil E. Abernethy is the man behind the curriculum at Birmingham-Southern. He successfully initiated the Quest Program on campus and will usher the college into its new academic program by 1970. Resourcefulness and creativity characterize Dr. Abernethy's efforts at Southern. He has served the college as Instructor of English, Director of College Theatre, Chairman of Publications Board, Dean, and Academic Vice-President.

O.C. WEAVER

Dr. O. C. Weaver demonstrated his ability to successfully cope with student problems while serving the college for eighteen years as professor of religion and philosophy.

His competence as an administrator is reflected each year in the college calendar and the immitable fashion by which he utilizes change to dissolve student difficulty and orient the student body toward the common goals outlined by the institution.

Dr. Weaver completed his A.B. at Birmingham-Southern in 1935, his B.D. at Garrett Theological Seminary in 1939, and his Ph.D. in Philosophy at Northwestern in 1952.

DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

DEAN OF STUDENTS

JOHN A. GREAVES

Dean John A. Greaves came to 'Southern in 1964 from the University of Alabama, where he had served as assistant to the Dean of Records and Admissions. As Dean of Men on the Hilltop, his primary responsibilities lie in the administration of men's residential life, regulation of campus fraternities, and overseeing extracurricular activities.

His office has also become a sounding board for everything from panty raids to the fifteen cent hamburger in the Snack Bar.

Dean Greaves received his B.S., (1950), his M.A., (1957), and Ed.D., (1966), from the University of Alabama.

GWEN ADAMS

The changing Birmingham-Southern may be most apparent to someone who has returned to the campus after having been away for a short time. Miss Gwen Adams comes back to her Alma Mater this year to assume the role of Dean of Women—a position which allows her to observe the changing face of 'Southern and also to be a part of the change. She defines the duties of her office in a traditional way: "to help every girl to develop her best self, academically and socially".

Miss Adams, as one of the new faces in 'Southern's administrative staff, hopefully will maintain old 'Southern's charm and integrate it with a receptive spirit for challenging new collegiate ideas, while maintaining an open mind for traditional ones.

ACTIVITIES

Activities—those particles of memories that flow together to make the busy stream of a whole year—are indeed the enjoyable highlights at Birmingham-Southern. For the important events, resident students decide to stay on campus for the weekends instead of packing off home or to another college. Here are random samples of the year 1966-67.

BEAUTY

"Beauty is not a need but an ecstasy.

It is not a mouth thirsting nor an empty hand stretched forth,
But rather a heart enflamed and a soul enchanted.

It is not the image you would see nor the song you would hear,
But rather an image you see though you close your eyes and a song you hear though you shut your ears.

. . . Beauty is life when life unveils her holy face.

But you are life and you are the veil.

Beauty is eternity gazing at itself in the mirror.

But you are eternity and you are the mirror."

Kahlil Gibran

GREEKS

National criticism of Greeks in the recent past has made many eyes focus narrowly on these groups. Whether they are worthwhile is still a question in the minds of many people. At Birmingham-Southern College, the Greeks have made an all-out plea for their existence by emphasizing their points of excellence: philanthropic work of all kinds, scholarship above the average student, and high values and ideals. It is hoped that these groups will maintain their respected place in the academic world.

"To see beauty even in the common things of life, to shed the light of love and friendship round me; to keep my life in tune with the world that I shall make no discords in the harmony of life; . . . to see and appreciate all that is noble in another, be her badge what it may; . . . This is to be my symphony." (From "My Symphony") This being the goal of Alpha Chi Omega, the group enjoyed a successful year with such projects as their annual campus-wide Casino Party, which they sponsor for their altruistic fund. AXO's are found in the following campus organizations; presidents of Mortar Board, the House Council, and Eta Sigma Phi; members of Who's Who, Student Congress, the Concert Choir, American Chemical Society, the Hilltop News and Southern Accent staffs, the Debate Team, the Art Students League, Psychology and German Clubs, and College Theater. They take pride in participants in the Miss Southern Accent pageant, Alabama Maid of Cotton contest, and PiKA Calendar Girls, as well as finalists in the Miss Alabama contest. "The Jacqueminot rose is the most lasting of roses and therefore, our friendship in AOII should be the most lasting. The rose is a simple, unassuming flower, but in its simplicity, it has a beauty above every other flower . . ." Having the rose as its outward sign of an ideal, AOII presents these words at its rush skit to show that ideal of the "gentile lady characterized by poise and naturalness." The ladies of the Jacqueminot Rose won the Philanthropic Award given by the Birmingham Panhellenic Association for their annual "Mister Hilltopper" show. They also hold the honors of retiring the pledge scholarship trophy and being number one in scholarship for the scholastic year 1965-66. AOII's are in Mortar Board, Triangle Club, Theta Sigma Lambda, Theta Chi Delta, Alpha Lambda Delta, Kappa Delta Epsilon, House Council, Student Congress, and the BSC cheerleaders. They hold the offices of President of Alpha Lambda Delta, treasurer of the Freshman Class, Secretary of the Senior Class, and junior manager of the Intramural Council. They are beauties in the Miss Southern Accent pageant and May Court, and have four members of Who's Who. The sorority was founded at Barnard College, Columbia University, New York, in 1897.

"May we as sisters in Kappa Delta strive each day to seek more earnestly the honorable and beautiful things. May we, each day, through love of those within our circle, learn to know and understand better those without our circle. May the diamond shield that guards our love find us each day truer, wiser, more faithful, more loving, and more noble." (The Kappa Delta Creed) Kappa Delta sisters have fulfilled their "love of those without their circle" this year by visiting the Crippled Children's Hospital and supporting an orphan in Viet Nam. Their pledge money-making project, the annual Slave Auction, is a favorite at 'Southern. The sisters of the White Rose are found in Mortar Board, Who's Who, SGA, Triangle Club, language honoraries, Hilltop News staff, and Business Manager of Quad. They are proud of the offices they hold in campus organizations: presidents of KDE and Theta Chi Delta, associate editor of the Southern Accent, and a member of the Cheerleading squad. A KD is Miss Southern Accent, and the group is represented on the PiKA calendar. In sports, they captured the Sportsmanship Trophy and were winners of the intramural swim meet for the sixth year in a row. Kappa Delta was founded in 1897 at Longwood College in Virginia.

"To bind men together in a brotherhood based upon eternal and immutable principles, with a bond as strong as right itself and as lasting as humanity; . . . to have no narrower limits within which to work for the elevation of man than the outlines of the world." (The Glazebrook Creed—1865). With these principles in mind, the 'Southern chapter of Alpha Tau Omega has had a successful year on campus. Surely one of the most outstanding memories of the ATO chapter was the visit of Art Linkletter to the College. Mr. Linkletter, an alumnus of ATO, was no doubt impressed with the positions of leadership held by the chapter: presidents of SGA, IFC, and the Freshman Class; chairman and vice-chairman of the Student Congress; vice-presidents of the Senior Class, Eta Sigma Phi, Alpha Kappa Psi, and the Men's Chorus; members of the Men's House Council, ODK, Newman Club, and MSM. ATO placed first in scholarship two out of three quarters in the 1965-66 academic year, keeping pace with its record of seven first places in the past thirteen years. Many members participate in intramural sports on the varsity basketball and swimming teams, and the "great big hairy-chested men" won the intramurals swimming and volleyball championships this year, in addition to second place for the All-Sports trophy. Miss Rachel Redwine — Sweetheart of SAE

"The true gentleman is the man whose conduct proceeds from good will and an acute sense of propriety, and whose self control is equal to all emergencies; . . . a man with whom honor is sacred and virtue safe." So reads the definition of "The True Gentleman," and the men of Minerva have stressed this standard among their members. Having the largest membership on campus, they are also the largest national fraternity and the oldest Greek letter fraternity in the South. SAE pledges make pilgrimages to the University of Alabama, where the fraternity was founded in 1856. Alabama Iota brothers take pride in being in the top 15% of national SAE in scholarship, while on campus their individual honors are many: presidential posts in Circle K, Triangle Club, the Religious Council, and the Senior Class; membership in the Honor Council and ODK; Sports Editor of the Hilltop News, Business Manager and Sports Editor of the Southern Accent. Director of the Miss Southern Accent pageant, treasurer of IFC, and two members of SGA. SAE placed high in sports, having top individual and team athletics. Last spring they captured the All-Sports trophy for placing first in intramural football, softball, and basketball. Behind a blazing replica of their pin, the brothers serenade their sweethearts beneath dormitory windows. The chapter sweetheart, presented at the annual Sweetheart Formal, is Rachel Redwine.

"I believe in Theta Chi, its traditions and its ideals. Born of sturdy manhood, nurtured by resolute men, ennobled by high and sacred purpose, it has taken its place among the educational institutions of America as a promoter of knowledge, an advancer of culture and a builder of character." (From the Creed of Theta Chi) Theta Chi was founded in 1856 at Norwich University, in Norwich, Vermont. Today it is one of the five largest national fraternities. The newest fraternity on 'Southern's campus, Theta Chi has inhabited the basement of the North Dormitory as a temporary residence. The men of the Red Carnation boast membership in the following campus organizations: Triangle Club, Hilltop News staff, Pre-ministerial Association, Canterbury Club, Theta Sigma Lambda, Baptist Student Union, American Chemical Society, Caduceus, and Methodist Student Movement. Theta Chis hold the posts of president of Alpha Phi Omega, secretary-treasurer of Canterbury Club, and vice-president of Phi Eta Sigma. At the Dream Girl Ball, Margaret West was chosen Dream Girl of the fraternity.

LEADERSHIP

A leader, whether here or anywhere, is by definition outstanding. Whether deserving or undeserving, willing or unwilling, he has been placed, either by hard work or sheer luck, a little above average. These makers and doers determine the course of the student body because they represent the hierarchy which carries the total responsibility for student action and opinion. Cynical or sincere, stolid or unpredictable, their outlooks will continue to mold the future of this college.

Members of Mortar Board attain the highest honor given exclusively to senior women. A 3.0 average for three years plus the qualities of leadership, character, and service qualify a girl for membership. Each year, the outgoing members tap their choices for this honor. Mortar Board sponsors a graduate school forum, a china and silver display for the purpose of financing scholarship, and a graduate school corner in the library. The popular "Late Permission" on weekends is also one of Mortar Board's fund-raising projects.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

The Publications Board might be called the "lime-light group" of 1967. Faced with the problems of no editor for the yearbook and a final decision on a faculty-censored satire for Quad, the board was the subject of much commentary. Members of the board are: the editors and business managers of student publications; the President, Secretary, and Treasurer of the SGA; the Dean of Students; the college advisor of student publications; and the faculty advisor of student publications. Besides being a sounding board for ideas and problems, the Publications Board serves as official arbitrator for intra-publications disputes. They recommend budgets to the SGA concerning financial support for member groups, and vote on the qualifications of candidates seeking editorships.

HONOR COUNCIL

Chairman . . . . . Jim Ward
 Secretary . . . . . Wayne Lord

The Honor Council has as its goal the enforcement of the Honor Code of Birmingham-Southern College. Eight juniors and seniors and one faculty member, exemplifying traits of high character and trustworthiness, are elected by the SGA each spring. The Dean of Students, the Dean of Women, and the dean of the college are also members. It is likely that these students have the most difficult and thankless duties of any at BSC.

The Student Government Association, once described in a student publication as something akin to the Mickey Mouse Club, has dropped its meaninglessness and become a very powerful and active league on 'Southern's campus in the past year. With active determination to strengthen its communication with the student body, the SGA now publishes the SGA Reports, has an active public relations committee and includes members outside of the legislative branch in its internal committees. The college has appropriated a 50% budget increase for the SGA in 1966-67, which has enabled the organization to acquire top entertainment for campus pageants and dances. The money has also been used for promotion of campus exchange programs with Smith College, Amherst, and Florida Presbyterian during the past year. Outside of the college itself, the SGA has been instrumental in fostering the Birmingham Inter-Collegiate Association. This group has as its goal the encouragement of communication between student bodies and the implementation of an exchange of ideas between campuses.

Rick DeShazo, Vice-President

Mike Newsom, President

STUDENT CONGRESS

The Student Congress, the associate to the SGA, is possibly the most representative group of all student opinion. The Congress was the brainchild of the students who traveled to Oberlin College in 1966 and saw the effectiveness of such a program. Two representatives from every dormitory wing, two from every fraternity house, and a representative number of commuters strive to pool student opinion and advise administration and faculty. Much of this year's work has been done by the educational policy committee which focuses its attention on the plans for the new curriculum.

The Hilltop News for 1966-67 is an attempt to broaden the student's outlook by keeping him informed about on and off-campus happenings. The News boosts the SGA's drive for student communication by publishing weekly reports by the SGA President. Faculty members air their views on various topics to liven interest and debate, as well as give insight into other ways of looking at the college student. Critiques on Birmingham artistic endeavors and sometimes spicy articles on everything from the Greeks to cafeteria food make the Hilltop News an informative and interesting publication.

THE SOUTHERN ACCENT

Collins Powell, Business Manager

The fact that the 1967 Southern Accent exists is something of a miracle. With an interesting variety of personnel including two editors, one a non-student and one a female; with at least two accountable business managers; with a harried and overworked photographer; with as little staff as is possible; and as much criticism and scandal as is imaginable, the Southern Accent came into being. With the "new Birmingham-Southern" as the format, the 1967 Southern Accent is an attempt at objectivity. It is a book, not only of names and faces, but of a spirit which now pervades the new Hilltop, a spirit which began to grow in the year 1963. It is a yearbook for the now, but also for the future, when, if all the dreams and expectations are realized, this annual will serve as a tribute to the then long-ago birth of a big idea. It is hoped by the editor and staff that it will be just such a tribute.

ORGANIZATIONS

Birmingham-Southern has numerous organizations to join, from religious groups to career interest clubs and service organizations. There are those, of course, who join these groups just to have a list of activities beneath their names in the records office; but, for the most part, the members of campus organizations have a sincere interest in the extra-curricular program at 'Southern. To the sincere joiners, these groups have a variety of activities and functions.

For the past three years the American Chemical Society at Birmingham-Southern has been rated among the top five percent of the more than 450 such clubs nationally. In order to warrant this recognition, the club sponsors such activities as visiting lecturers, departmental parties, a tutoring service, films, field trips, exhibits for high school students and other activities. The ACS is composed of all interested chemistry majors and tries to provide a worthwhile extension to their classroom experience with chemistry. The Lux Ducta this year has been Bill Huggins.

THETA CHI DELTA

Theta Chi Delta, Birmingham-Southern's honorary chemistry fraternity, initiates once a year those students maintaining a "B" average in the first four quarters of chemistry. In addition to urging chemistry students to greater accomplishment through recognizing the initiate and the graduating senior with the highest averages in chemistry, the group actively backs the ACS in its many enterprises. Marjorie Burgess, as president, spearheaded the group's various endeavors this year.

SOUTHERN SINGERS

The unique characteristic of the Southern Singers, the campus' all-male chorus, is that almost none of its members are music majors. Under the direction of Sam Batt Owens and the accompaniment of Jimmy Dorroh (one of the rare music majors), the chorus presents local and state-wide concerts of religious and secular music. In February, the Southern Singers made a six-day tour of southern Alabama and northern Florida, performing before such audiences as the First Methodist Church in Cordova and the Episcopal Cathedral in Jacksonville, Florida. The chorus is in its fourth year of existence, this year's seniors being the first graduating class. Officers of the group are: Gary Klotzman, president; Jack Sellers, secretary; and Fred Maulden, business manager.

CONCERT CHOIR

Weeks of rehearsal, days of excitement, hours of concentration, even moments of ecstasy—all these are part of the lives of choirs. Birmingham-Southern's best recruiters practice day and night to achieve near perfection. The valiant choir members can often be found coming onto campus from performances late at night when all other students are blissfully asleep.

This year the concert choir, under the direction of Hugh Thomas, was asked to make a tape of hymns and spirituals to be used as a musical background for a NBC documentary on American Art. The program was broadcasted throughout the nation. The members of the choir eagerly consented to come to school two weeks early to begin rehearsals.

The tape was only the beginning of a terrific year. The concert choir climaxed their year with the annual spring visit to Chicago. The program was the most ambitious the choir has performed in years. It contained such major contemporary works as the Paulenc "Mass in G" and the Britten "Festival Te Deum" as well as earlier masterpieces by Brahms and Martini.

COLLEGE THEATER

The College Theater will greet with jubilation the moment when they make their first performance in the multi-million-dollar theater now under construction. The new theater is as complex and intricate as the mind of its designer, Dr. Arnold Powell. Its maze of hallways and tiny dressing rooms will furnish Birmingham-Southern's group with a fascinating base of operation. This year's productions, presented at the Underground Theater in the basement of Stackham Woman's Building, were Women of Trachis and Blood Wedding.

Circle K is an organization whose members are former Key Club members, although Key Club membership is not a rigid requirement. Its purpose, as a service organization, is to seek needs on the campus and in the community and to sponsor projects to fulfill these needs. Many Circle K members continue this worthwhile service in Kiwanis International. The program of their single meeting this year was to have their picture made for the 1966-67 Southern Accent.

ETA SIGMA PHI

Eta Sigma Phi Fraternity, founded as an honorary society for students of Greek and Latin at the University of Chicago in 1914, is now an international honorary fraternity with seventy-two chapters in leading colleges and universities. Pi Chapter at Birmingham-Southern was founded in 1927. The group, led by Sally Robertson, holds monthly meetings with lectures. It awards medals in local high schools to honor students in second and fourth year Latin. Members must have a "B" average or better in the study of Greek and/or Latin, including work in advanced courses. The purpose of the organization is to foster an appreciation of the arts, literature, and culture of ancient Greece and Rome and to encourage the study of Greek and Latin.

The Women's House Council, under the guidance of the Dean of Women, Miss Adams, is composed of representatives from each of the three women's dorms. The House Council serves as a link between dorm residents and administration. The House Council participates actively on the campus; and during Parents' Day and Spring Visit the members serve as hostesses. Each member must have a 2.0 average, respect for her fellow students, and a good attitude.

MEN'S HOUSE COUNCIL

The Men's House Council is a regulatory body designed to supervise the activities of men residents at Birmingham-Southern. Under the direction of the Dean of Students, this group is responsible for maintaining social rules and serves as a link between the administration and residents. The president is Jada Winton.

SPORTS EDITOR BOB SHEEHAN

SPORTS

Sports, whether intramural or varsity, allow the individual participant to prove himself in physical and mental combat. During the past two years, 'Southern's physical education department has made itself heard in the academic jungle of the small liberal arts school. With the addition of four new varsity sports and increased participation in the highly competitive intramural program, the development of the human body may once again become more than an extra-curricular activity.

VARSVITY BASKETBALL

Coach Harald Pickel

Managers — Newby and Echols.

The 1966-67 Panthers brought to the Hilltop a fast, aggressive brand of basketball as they played their roughest schedule in years. Among new Panther opponents were Jacksonville State University, Spring Hill College, and the University of Tennessee at Martin. This season was the first in eight years that the Hilltappers have been able to subdue Huntington College of Montgomery and gain a victory from them. They have done this twice, once in a one-point victory which was decided in the closing seconds in Montgomery. Other victories over Georgia State, Millsaps, and Mississippi College also sweetened the season. Coach Pickel's cagers lost their first two games, but then proceeded to take seven of the next eight games, getting under way to what was to be a 12-8 record in regular season play.

A first in 'Southern basketball history this year was the team's air trip to New Orleans where they took on the Wolfpack of Loyola University. This was the first game in which the team used the airways for transportation, and it marked the re-entry of Birmingham-Southern into competition with larger universities, the University of Alabama already having been scheduled for next year.

CHEERLEADERS

With much-welcomed new uniforms and three new male members, B.S.C.'s cheerleading squad created enthusiastic spirit on the Hilltop. Robert Kruidenier and Charlie Hill have lent a "helping hand and leg" by assisting the cheerleaders in some of the yells and Jim Blackburn has added to general spirit by his presence as the "Panther".

GOLF

The varsity golf team finished the 1966 season with the less than even record of 4 wins and 5 losses. The '67 linksmen, however, look forward to the new season with optimism. There are four returning lettermen this year and a couple of freshmen who look very promising.

TENNIS

The varsity tennis team had an excellent season in 1966, winning 12 and losing 2. This year, Bill Burch succeeds Larry Hemp-hill in the number one position, backed up by Neil Templeton in the number two spot. Tough new opponents for this year are the University of Alabama, Vanderbilt, and the University of Tennessee.

VARSITY SWIMMING

For the first time since 1957, Birmingham-Southern has a varsity swimming team. Under the direction of Coach de Cubas, the team has made good progress and is looking forward to upcoming meets. The team is very small this year, consisting of only five members, but the attraction of scholarships should draw good teams in the future.

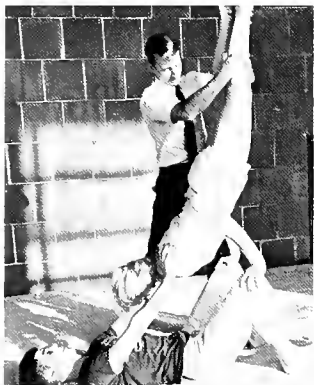

Coach de Cubas shows future plans to team members Bob Carr, Charlie Hill and John Butt.

Morietto Monoghan, Robert Kruidenier, Robert E. Smith, Jeon Butt, Lyndo Bornes, Judith Simmons, Cheryl Troup, Coach Wassum, Paulette Brigner

GYMNASTICS

Being one of the newest teams added to 'Southern's physical education program the Varsity Gymnastics team was organized winter quarter of this year. Although the public has not witnessed the results of the team's workouts, the members have very well felt them. The team has done well on both the mats and the trampoline considering the almost nil experience they had had previous to the formation of the team.

FOOTBALL

Sigs Win Trophy

This year's intramural gridiron saw a battle of defenses. Most of the games were very close, with several ties and one point margins. Sigma Alpha Epsilon demonstrated the strongest offense by completing the season undefeated with one tie to Kappa Alpha. The Independents came in a strong second with Lambda Chi and Kappa Alpha coming in third and fourth respectively.

After a series of exciting playoff games, the intramural basketball record showed the unique situation of two groups holding the first four places. The undefeated SAE A-team was first, and the SAE B's were third; the Independent A-team was second, and the Independent B's were fourth.

Alpha Tau Omega swept all but one of the swimming events to carry the intramural swimming trophy home for the second year in a row. Four new records were set:

100 yard freestyle	Butt (ATO)	1:00.3
100 yard freestyle relay	team (ATO)	50.3
150 yard medley relay	team (ATO)	1:39.7

VOLLEYBALL

Volleyball is a fast exciting sport that requires a combination of high individual skill and a united team effort. Teams that looked good at the beginning of the season were the Independent A's and the ATO A's.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Pi Phi's Champs

The Women's volleyball Championship was decided in the last game of the season as the unbeaten Pi Phi's defeated the also unbeaten Zetas. Season Allstars were Morline McCorgo, Dalen McGonigal, Cheryl Troup, Mary Gravlee, Sharon Phillips, and Su Lockett.

CLASSES

*The following pages are a pictorial essay on the Birmingham-Southern student. Note carefully the faces of these people—especially the eyes. Some look at you squarely; they were not camera-shy. Some glance away; perhaps they didn't like to be photographed. The captions of the Seniors are their accomplishments; the rest have only names . . . so far. ## ADVERTISEMENTS

Outside Birmingham-Southern there are many who have invested in the future of its students. Whether one is betting in a poker game or investing in a college, there is a chance element in doing so. These representatives of the economic institutions of Birmingham have invested in a small part of another institution—education—believing in the possibility that this college will endure and continue in its excellence. Let us be grateful for their trust and patronize their establishments.

The construction industry thinks of Vulcan as crushed aggregates — stone, slag, sand and gravel. We also supply ready-mixed concrete, concrete block and concrete pipe to the building field.

To other industries, Vulcan Materials means other essential products. Divisions of Vulcan fill the needs of the industrial and agricultural chemical, metallics and related markets in addition to the construction industry. Vulcan Materials serves the nation's basic industries.

OUR NEXT YEARBOOK DEADLINE

EPILOGUE

Truthfully, I cannot say that the 1967 Southern Accent is a product of myself or of the people who gave much of their time to the task of finally completing it. The first thirty-two pages, an insight into the new Birmingham-Southern College which has slowly emerged during the past four years, were edited by Bill Robinson and written by George Morgan. The next two hundred and twenty-two were edited by an entirely different staff. Coherence was accomplished, however.

The formality of the Greek section is an attempt to convey to others and to remind those included of the purposes and reasons for existence of these organizations. The activities section, a representative pictorial essay on the 'Southern student, is used as a means of capturing an undefinable something which pervades the campus—a sense of scholarly dedication mixed with an equal part of hell-raising enthusiasm.

There is much to remember about this year in the publications cloister—the infamous masculine vs. feminine viewpoints; the encouragement of Ernie Crates; the empty Coke machine and literally thousands of cigarette butts; Fred's back rubs; and Dick Fleming's perseverance under more than bad circumstances.

We, of the staff, only hope that the 1967 Southern Accent will be enjoyable to the students of B S C. It is felt that the fact that it exists at all is remarkable, and that if it has originality and if creativity is evident, that it will be appreciated.

It has all been a very ghastly pleasure.
